PART II

NARRATIVE SUMMARY

The six months covered during this reporting period represent a particularly challenging time for Marine Aircraft Group-15.

During January, February and March 1972, while located at MCAS, Iwakuni, subordinate units conducted extensive aircrew training while deployed to NAHA AB, Okinawa and CUBI POINT NAS, Republic of the Philippines.

On 6 April 1972 movement orders directing Marine Aircraft Group-15 to combat duty in the Republic of Vietnam were received. The maintenance of combat readiness during the preceding months of training was well illustrated by the short reaction time from initial notification to ordnance on target. Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-115 was deployed to Naha AB when the word came to move and Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-232 had just returned from deployment. Both F-4 squadrons, along with elements of the Marine Aircraft-15 Headquarters and detachments from Headquarters and Maintenance Squadron-15 and Marine Air Base Squadron-15, mounted out to arrive at Da Nang AB, Republic of Viet Nam, within twenty four hours.

The subsequent days saw aircrews and men preparing for combat missions. On 9 April 1972, just 3 days from notification, Marine Aircraft Group-15 squadrons commenced combat operations against the invasion from North Viet Nam.

During April, May and June, Marine Aircraft Group-15's F-4 squadrons flew up to fifty sorties a day supporting the South Vietnamese in their fight against the invading North Vietnamese. Additionally, TA-4F's of the Headquarters and Maintenance Squadron-15 detachment flew Naval Gunfire spotting missions in support of COMSEVENTHFLT. During these months, Marine Aircraft Group-15 squadron's high aircraft availability produced impressive sortie rates.

On 20 June 1972 Marine Aircraft Group-15 moved again, this time to the expeditionary environment of Nam Phong, Thailand. Concurrent with this move the Group bid farewell to Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-212 who returned to Hawaii and welcomed aboard Marine All Weather Attack Squadron-533 with their A-6A Intruder aircraft. Notwithstanding the numerous difficulties of this further deployment, units of Marine Aircraft Group-15 have delivered 8493 tons of ordnance on target and amassed 3816 hours of flight time while engaged in combat operations from 9 April 1972 to 30 June 1972.

Although bomb damage assessment is incomplete, as Forward Air Controllers often cannot observe strike results, the following known results are considered impressive:
